

Dear,

I am writing with genuine enthusiasm about the "Junior data scientist" position at VLAIO. This role feels like it was written for me. Above all, I am looking for a job that contributes to society and gives me a sense of purpose. VLAIO's mission to stimulate entrepreneurship through innovation and sustainable development is something that aligns perfectly with my vision for meaningful work.

This pursuit of meaningful work is truly the most important factor for me, and my past experiences confirm it. For example, in my previous role at VGC, my job was to architect, develop and implement solutions for schools. It was also about transformation, we were bringing modern technology like innovative uses for iPads and new digital tools directly to students and teachers, helping them discover a more modern way of teaching and learning. The chance to channel that same energy into helping VLAIO navigate the future with AI feels like the perfect next step.

I am also fascinated by technologies like LLM's and AI. I have built several projects with them and I closely follow the rapid evolution of AI, particularly Large Language Models, because I see their immense potential to serve human goals. Translating that technical power into simple, accessible solutions that can empower VLAIO and entrepreneurs across Flanders.

I am confident that my passion for VLAIO and AI and LLM's makes me an ideal candidate for this position. I look forward to the possibility of meeting with the hiring and data team at VLAIO to further elaborate on how I can help to contribute to VLAIO and their mission to support entrepreneurs.

Kind Regards,
Gerrit Geeraerts
